French Report, However, Is Not

ments in Berlin.

BULLETIN

Paris—Berlin dispatches to the French foreign office Tuesday indicated Germany will accept the allied ultimatum.

The messages were not made public but at the Quai D'Orsay it appeared to be accepted that the Germans will sign.

French troops eagerly awaiting the word to advance will be held at the border of the Ruhr valley prepared to march in if Germany shows signs of evading any of the terms.

By Webb Miller

Paris—With only sixty hours remaining before expiration of the allied ultimatum Thursday midnight, France Tuesday was prepared for the "jump off."

French leaders frankly hoped Germany will reject the demands and give them a chance to occupy more German territory.

Plans for the invasion of the Ruhr valley were complete to the last train schedule and gas mask.

Indicative of French feeling was the letter of Cardinal Dubois of Paris, made public Tuesday. Addressing the archbishop of Cologne, the cardinal said:

"France's patience is exhausted. The people's sense of justice cannot be hurt with impunity."

"We demand only justice."

There was great enthusiasm among the troops already gathered at Dusseldorf and the young men who are still pouring toward the border on troop trains.

Germans Undecided

Berlin—Unexpected opposition to acceptance of the allied ultimatum developed among reichstag leaders Tuesday. All night sessions of party leaders failed to bring the democrats and volkspartei leaders into agreement with the majority socialists who favor accepting the demands.

At 1 a. m., the volkspartei caucus voted against acceptance. The democrats continued in session.

If the democrats finally oppose acceptance, the question will stand a chance of defeat, and the allied invasion would start as planned.

The reichstag was to meet at four p. m. for action on the allied demands. By that time it was believed the various parties would have demonstrated their course and a new cabinet would be in process of formation. Paul Loebe, majority socialist, was the leading candidate for chancellor.

Combine With Russia

It was believed he would pick his ministers from the majority socialists, centrists and democrats.

Berlin newspapers Tuesday discussed a suggestion said to have been made by opponents of the ultimatum that Germany refuse to sign an agreement but form a combination with Russia.

The proposal had the approval of radicals who have been anxious for full recognition of the soviet republic.

NEW WITNESSES TO

Case in Paris.

By United Press Leased Wire

New York—Zalmon Ben Youssef, former society photographer, has arrived in New York from England to offer his assistance to Mrs. James A. Stillman in the latter's divorce case.

She became acquainted with Stillman when he called at her New York studio to have his portrait made. Stillman as well as many other big Wall Street financiers had several portraits made by Miss Ben Youssef.

The artist had closed her New York studio and gone to London when she heard of the divorce suit. She hurried back to the United States. It was reported Tuesday she had a list of names of women which she is ready to turn over to Mrs. Stillman's lawyers in order to be of assistance to her.

Some of the bitterness underlying the divorce suit was exhibited Tuesday when it was learned that Mrs. Stillman when she first broke with her husband had an agreement with him whereby she would go to Paris and file the action of separation.

When she was about to sail aboard the Olympic, agents of the banker's attorneys served her with papers showing he had instituted action in this state. Mrs. Stillman, her friends say, denounced that action as a breach of agreement.

Mrs. Stillman's lawyer's Tuesday are planning another invasion of Canada to question persons who were residing near Grand Anse, location of the Stillman farm, during the summer of 1918 when Mrs. Stillman and Fred Beauvais are alleged to have been much in each others company.

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington—Republican Leader Mondell announced in the house Tuesday that because of the great need for governmental economy no appropriation bill providing for the erection of new postoffices and federal buildings will be passed at this session of congress.

(The above dispatch indicates that Appleton will have to wait another year before money is appropriated to enlarge the federal building here.)

President Harding has not asked the house to delay action on the Knox peace resolution, it was learned authoritatively Tuesday.

At the same time the president is not insisting that the house go out of its way to rush the Knox resolution through.

The president's view is that the situation in Europe will have been cleared up temporarily at least by the time resolution passes through the regular legislative channels.

Schmirler, Ratzman and Duvall Given Final Hearing
Before Trial Board.

Cases against three police officers for charges preferred by Chief George T. Prim, were disposed of at a meeting of the trial board of the police and fire commission Monday evening in the city hall. All three officers were present and were permitted to express themselves.

Detective Joseph Schmirler was found not guilty of intoxication but was held guilty of insubordination. He was to be punished by suspension for four weeks, but the sentence was suspended for as long a time as he is faithful to his duties. Schmirler was ordered back to duty.

Patrolman Edward Ratzman was found guilty of intoxication and insolence. He also was suspended for four weeks with sentence suspended.

Detective John Duwall was found guilty of assaulting an officer while on duty in the person of Patrolman Ratzman. The board held, however, that he had sufficient provocation for his act but that he took the wrong course in not taking the matter to the police and fire commission.

All three officers were reprimanded for their offense and for letting any feeling exist between them that would interfere with the efficient discharge of their duties. They were told to go back to work and be loyal to the force.

FOREST FIRES ON NORTH PENINSULA

By United Press Leased Wire

Detroit—Forest fires, part of which are believed to be of incendiary origin have broken out in seven northern Michigan counties, threatening destruction to scores of farm buildings and the loss of many thousands of dollars worth of timber, according to reports here Tuesday.

Hundreds of men are reported to be fighting the flames in Cheboygan, Gogebic, Ontonagon, Kalkaska, Grand Traverse, Emmett and Antrim counties.

Fed by the dry slashings in the cut over lands, the fires are said to be advancing rapidly and in Antrim county it is said as large an area already has been burned over as all during last year.

One man is under arrest in Manistowic, under suspicion of having started forest fires in that county and officers are searching for others believed to be implicated. From Petoskey come reports that flames have advanced to within 100 feet of the University of Michigan buildings at the biological camp on Douglas lake and that a volunteer force has been making desperate efforts to save them.

The move should give a better tone to business, bankers said.

FREIGHT RATES

Lack of Demand Is Real Reason for Slack Business, Rail
Head Says.

HITS U. S. COMPETITION

Middleman Is Held Responsible for Propaganda Against Railroads.

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C.—An attack on the "widespread propaganda" for lower freight rates opened the senate interstate commerce committee's investigation of the railroads Tuesday.

Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific, told the committee that general deflation and not high freight rates was responsible for business stagnation. He blamed this stagnation for inability of producers to dispose of their products and charged that in many cases the middle man was responsible for lower rate agitation.

The witness proposed a series of reforms involving regulation of transportation systems competing with the railroads.

"The fact is," Kruttschnitt said, "that even since the rates have been advanced the cost of transporting commodities is far less than the toll taken by the commission merchant and the retailer. Consequently people are misled and conclude that high rates have stopped the movement of a large amount of freight and that the railroads would make more money if they would reduce rates and thereby revive traffic."

"Many commodities would not move even if the freight charges on them were abolished entirely because producers can find no market," the witness continued, and in support of this pointed out that while ocean rates have been at their lowest point in their history, ships here and abroad are idle.

As remedies for the railroad situation, resulting from too small revenues, Kruttschnitt recommended:

Adequate tolls and regulation of the use of highways built with public money.

Make inland waterways pay for themselves by regulation and proper tolls.

Keep the government out of the ship operating business and halt expenditures for coast to coast ocean transportation in competition with the railroads.

As for the Panama canal sufficient to pay its cost of operation and maintenance.

Do not deprive transcontinental carriers of coast to coast traffic by inflexibly enforcing a long and short haul clause.

REDS HAVE FADED
TO A SICKLY PINK

Radicalism Missing at I. W. W.
Convention Opening in Chicago.

By United Press Leased Wire

Chicago—Wild-eyed reds of the country have gone through the laundry of conservatism and have come out a faded pink.

In other words, a radical isn't what he used to be.

A visit to the annual convention of the Industrial Workers of the World here Tuesday demonstrated that conclusively.

For instance, none of the forty-five delegates carried T. N. T. bombs on their hips. Also, there were no printing presses turning out seditious literature by the ton. No long-winded gentlemen, speaking in broken English, were numbered among the delegates. All the representatives talked the king's English and talked it mildly.

Advocates of the overthrow of the government were not present. Delegates advocated the acquisition of additional members and little else.

The chief problem before the radicals was this:

"How in the world are we going to scrape up the $75,000 to reimburse the bondsmen of our nine convicted brethren who failed to answer the roll call at Leavenworth prison?"

Delegates all frankly admit they are through forever with "intellectuals," most of whom were sentenced to serve from one to twenty years in Leavenworth prison for violation of the espionage act.

Houston, Texas—Penalty of death was decided by drawing of lots in the case of H. L. Walker, scheduled to hang here Tuesday between 11 a. m. and sunset, according to information given by Franklin F. Davis, foreman of the jury.

This fact was presented to Governor Neff at Austin Tuesday but he refused to grant a reprieve, according to a message from there.

According to the story by Foreman Davis, the jurors were deadlocked. Griffin is personally leading the fight against legislation designed to abolish trading in grain futures.

NO MONOPOLIES ON
GRAIN EXCHANGE

By United Press Leased Wire

Peoria, Ill.—Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago board of trade, here Tuesday defended grain brokers against the charges that they are "unnecessary to grain marketing" and "gamblers."

Griffin spoke before the Illinois Grain Dealers' association.

"Charges against exchanges are in the main baseless and uttered by men who entirely lack knowledge of grain marketing," he said.

"Grain exchanges are controlled entirely by the law of supply and demand. They represent the last word in marketing, and are the result of evolution and improvement since the time of Joseph. Where the system prevails there can be no monopoly."

Griffin is personally leading the fight against legislation designed to abolish trading in grain futures.

Harding Makes New
Postoffice Rules

President Makes It Possible to
Appoint One of Three Men
With Highest Markings in Examinations for Appointment
as Postmasters.

Washington, D. C.—President Harding promulgated the executive order outlining the method by which postmasters of the first, second and third classes are to be selected.

The order is aimed to replace but not entirely overturn the executive order issued by former President Wilson which put postmasters under the civil service.

The executive order makes it possible for postmasters to be chosen from the three candidates who stand highest in a civil service examination. Existing regulations, require appointment of the highest, and the effect of the new regulations is to give the postmaster general more leeway in naming postmasters.

The order directs all incumbent postmasters whose terms have expired and will apply to other incumbents as their terms expire.

A total of nearly 13,000 postmaster-ships are affected, out of a total of 50,000. All of those affected are towns and cities.

It was the contention of Republicans that if the Wilson order had been allowed to stand, many democratic appointees would have had life jobs.

"This leaves in the appointing power who have the ultimate responsibility for efficient administration of necessary constitutional right of office," President Harding said in a statement commenting on the new order.

"This right of selection is the kind of responsibility which cannot legally be and is not abridged by act of congress, and is in exact harmony with the spirit of the civil service principle."

The order prohibits anyone taking the examination if he has passed his sixty-fifth birthday or not actually resided within the delivery territory of his office for two years.

NO MONOPOLIES ON
GRAIN EXCHANGE

By United Press Leased Wire

Peoria, Ill.—Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago board of trade, here Tuesday defended grain brokers against the charges that they are "unnecessary to grain marketing" and "gamblers."

Griffin spoke before the Illinois Grain Dealers' association.

"Charges against exchanges are in the main baseless and uttered by men who entirely lack knowledge of grain marketing," he said.

"Grain exchanges are controlled entirely by the law of supply and demand. They represent the last word in marketing, and are the result of evolution and improvement since the time of Joseph. Where the system prevails there can be no monopoly."

Griffin is personally leading the fight against legislation designed to abolish trading in grain futures.

Harding Makes New
Postoffice Rules

President Makes It Possible to
Appoint One of Three Men
With Highest Markings in Examinations for Appointment
as Postmasters.

Washington, D. C.—President Harding promulgated the executive order outlining the method by which postmasters of the first, second and third classes are to be selected.

The order is aimed to replace but not entirely overturn the executive order issued by former President Wilson which put postmasters under the civil service.

The executive order makes it possible for postmasters to be chosen from the three candidates who stand highest in a civil service examination. Existing regulations, require appointment of the highest, and the effect of the new regulations is to give the postmaster general more leeway in naming postmasters.

The order directs all incumbent postmasters whose terms have expired and will apply to other incumbents as their terms expire.

A total of nearly 13,000 postmaster-ships are affected, out of a total of 50,000. All of those affected are towns and cities.

It was the contention of Republicans that if the Wilson order had been allowed to stand, many democratic appointees would have had life jobs.

"This leaves in the appointing power who have the ultimate responsibility for efficient administration of necessary constitutional right of office," President Harding said in a statement commenting on the new order.

"This right of selection is the kind of responsibility which cannot legally be and is not abridged by act of congress, and is in exact harmony

EXHIBIT FEATURES STATE CONFERENCE

Work of State University Is Graphically Presented in Trade School.

One of the features of the fourth annual Industrial Service Conference which opened at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the vocational school is the joint industrial exhibit built up for the university exposition in Madison a few weeks ago.

Over a thousand square feet of floor space in the basement of the school is taken up by the exhibit, while the wall space, which is covered with charts, takes up 1,200 square feet.

The charts were assembled by the bureau of industrial relations of the extension division from 14 instructors and professors, representing five departments of the state university.

It is designed to show in a graphic way the resources of the state university available through extension service.

Willis Wisler, chief of the bureau of industrial relations, and who is in charge of the display, is operating a miniature employment office with the assistance of university students and labor management.

One of the special features of the exhibit is the apparatus for administering trade tests, vocational tests, aptitude tests and other forms as applied to industrial physiology.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages to ward the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parment (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parment used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noise or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

OLD-TIMERS TURN TABLES ON FONDY

Visitors Are Treated to Dinner and Then Whipped on Netball Court.

The Fond du Lac "Old-Timers" were guests of honor at a banquet of the Interchurch league Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. The Congregational bowling team and the Congregational "B" volleyball team were also entertained by the other teams of the league.

Following the banquet Fondy's old men were taken to the volleyball court and defeated in two out of three games. The scores were 21-10, 21-18 and 18-21.

George F. Werner presented the interchurch pennants to Captain H. L. Dawson of the winning bowling team and Dr. H. E. Peabody received the volleyball pennant in the absence of Captain E. Colvin.

A "Loving-Trap," bearing the inscription "Auld Lang Syne," was presented to the visitors by Dr. Samuel Plantz. The Appleton 40-year team will go to Fond du Lac on May 23 and endeavor to win back the cup.

The average ages of the teams which played Monday evening is 34 years. There were three men in the group more than 65 years old and six men more than 60.

M'KEE FAMILY PRESENTS INTERESTING PROGRAM

A large crowd attended the novel entertainment presented in Lawrence Memorial chapel Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Carl McKee under the auspices of the Ariele board. The program was varied, consisting of solos, character sketches, monologues and crayon pictures.

Gertrude Wright McKee gave a clever presentation of a one act play, in which she assumed the parts of six characters in a charming manner. A sketch entitled "School days" in which Carl McKee assumed the role of school master and Mrs. McKee that of the only pupil brought laughter from the audience.

The entertainment closed with a landscape drawing by Mrs. McKee, a crayon artist, and a musical reading of the quaint "Winken, Blinken and Nod."

Card Party A card party will be given by the Christian Mothers of Sacred Heart church at the home of Peter Dietzen, 686 Main-st., Tuesday evening.

Every Girl or Woman in Wisconsin Has An Opportunity To Win

Girls get out your pencil, spend a few minutes' time and win real money. The Orbitone Laboratories Co., 1259 N. Clark Street, Chicago, is offering prizes totaling $300.00 for an advertising slogan. For the best slogan $100.00 will be paid; for the next best, $75.00; for the third, $50.00; and then there will be three additional prizes of $25.00 each. The winning slogan will be adopted for advertising purposes.

Here are a few samples of slogans to give you an idea of what is required: "Orbitone adds charm and beauty to the face." "Beautiful eyes in every jar of Orbitone." "Be beautiful with Orbitone." Slogans should not be over eight words, the fewer words the better. Any girl or woman living in Wisconsin may enter. Each slogan must be written on the inside of the top of an Orbitone carton. This is necessary so that we may know that you have used Orbitone and can appreciate its merits, thus enabling you to write a really snappy slogan.

You may send in as many slogans as you wish, but each slogan must be written on a separate carton head. Merely write the date, the slogan and your name and address, and send to the Orbitone Laboratories Company, Contest closes June 30th. The judges will be the Advertising Manager of the Orbitone Laboratories Co., and two representatives of the Read Advertising Agency, Chicago. No one outside of Wisconsin will be allowed to compete in this contest.

Orbitone is a delicately scented cream which quickly promotes the growth of eye brows and lashes. It is made in three shades, light brown and dark. The brown and dark instantly darken, as well as promote the growth. Orbitone is absolutely harmless; it positively will not stiffen or break the lashes; but it will promote a really beautiful set of brows and lashes. Do not accept substitutes for Orbitone. Accept only the genuine. Price 50 cents.

You can also use Orbitone cartons for submitting slogans. Write your slogans on the inside of the front of cartons (containing the girl's head). Orbitone is the Original Eye Sparkler. A few drops in your eyes will make them sparkle like jewels. Orbitone (pronounced Or-Ja-o) is absolutely harmless; in fact, there is nothing better for watery, tired, itching eyes. It instantly refreshes and strengthens. Price 50 cents.

Orbitone and Orbitone are for sale by J. E. Toigt, and well-stocked drugists everywhere; or these preparations may be had by sending direct to the Orbitone Laboratories Company, 1259 N. Clark Street, Chicago, on receipt of price.

LACK OF PROPER HOUSING CAUSE OF MUCH UNREST

America's Greatest Need Is Housing Policy, Conference Speaker Says.

Prof. L. S. Smith, of the University of Wisconsin, who was sent to Europe last year to attend the World's Housing conference, speaking on "American Industrial Housing" before the Fourth Wisconsin Industrial Service Conference here last night, declared: "We have no more right to kill a man with a house than with a gun."

"Lack of decent home life is often the cause of the fierce resentment cherished toward society by certain of its classes," he said. "More fundamental than the deporting of alien bolsheviks is the prompt adoption of an American housing policy which will prevent their creation."

"The solution of the American general housing problem rests as much upon social and political needs and values as upon the needs of industry for efficient labor. Adequate housing meets both the industrial and social needs of the community."

"During the war home building ceased. Our country is now short over 1,000,000 homes. Other nations are actively engaged in home building as an insurance against bolshevism. American is still in the talking stage. Housing for industrial workers in America has never been profitable so has practically ceased."

"The American housing problem concerns more than a shortage of houses. We are suffering more from a shortage of vision on our real housing problem."

"The entire country is responsible for present conditions. Our greatest need is not labor or materials but to find money for building. If citizens would invest their savings in local house mortgages instead of buying oil and otherwise 'blue sky' stocks, home building would again resume, the investors' money would be safely invested and the whole country would profit. Another way to assist in home building would be for both old and young to invest their savings in the stock of building and loan associations."

"The greatest assistance to home building is the Calder bill, which is a federal building loan bank bill. This stock is owned by 7,500 building loan companies. It issues bonds at 4 1/2 per cent interest, and the proceeds go to federal loan companies holding stock in the federal bank. It pays such money in equal semi-annual payments together with accrued interest and commission due the bank. Such repayment is to constitute a trust fund to be used in repurchasing its own federal building loan bonds or other United States bonds. It provides that

WILL HELP SERVICE MEN COLLECT BONUS

Announcement has been made by Mrs. B. W. Wells, county Red Cross secretary, that former service men who registered out of the state are eligible to the state bonus of $10 a month for the time they were in the service. The home service section is prepared to assist such men in obtaining this money.

This ruling applies to all Wisconsin men who registered in some other state and will make affidavit that their home is in Wisconsin, Mrs. Wells said.

the capital and reserve as well as all income should be exempt from federal, state or local taxation.

"A third very good plan would result from a law exempting from taxation for a term of years, say ten, all home building begun and finished within the next two years. Such a law was passed last January by the board of aldermen of New York City. It has had a marked effect in speeding up home-building."

"Manufacturers have seen the necessity of providing the housing of complex and expensive machinery required in their plants, but until very recently the laborer, the most expensive and most delicate machine in the whole process of production was expected to come to the plant like a tortoise with his house on his back. Enormous sums of money have been spent for the latest and most efficient machines while tens of thousands of human machines, upon whose physical and moral fitness must finally depend the factory's output and the stockholders' dividends, are compelled to shift for themselves in crowded tenements or in other unsanitary and socially unwholesome housing."

"One of the lessons of the war has been its disclosure of the intimate relation of bad and inadequate housing to abnormal labor turnover. Inadequate housing decreases the efficiency of labor and thus adds to the cost of production."

"Already hundreds of industries are investing large sums in improved housing for their employees. This important method of aiding the housing problem deserves much more general adoption. At present there is a surplus of labor in some industrial centers. This does not mean there is a surplus of efficient labor. Industrial housing should be recognized as a prime necessity for the return of normal conditions of industry as well as a certain guarantee for their future permanence."

Prof. Smith illustrated with slides how many companies are building very desirable homes for their employees. Pictures of homes built for their employees by such companies as the following were shown: Fairbanks-Morse Co., Beloit; Goodyear Company, Akron, O.; General Motors Co., Flint, Mich.

Earl Bauerfeind has gone to Clintonville and Shawano on a business trip.

A special visiting day has been arranged at United States public health hospital No. 37, Waukesha. Open house will be kept at other hospitals by the Red Cross, especially

THINKS CHEMIST WILL DO AWAY WITH DAIRY COW

That the chemist some day will replace the cow in producing the nation's milk is the view taken by Hugh Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, in a communication published in the May issue of American Farming. An editorial on this subject, based on Mr. Corbett's belief, also appears in this issue.

Mr. Corbett took issue with an agricultural expert who scoffed at Henry Ford's effort to produce a milk equal to that of the cow from vegetables, chemicals and nuts. The expert believed nothing could replace the product of the udder, but Mr. Corbett believes Mr. Ford's idea should not be made light of. Chemists employed by the automobile manu-

A POLITICAL SENSATION

It is a fortunate thing for the country that Senator Lodge is not directing its foreign policy; ditto as to Senator Penrose, and the same as to the foreign relations committee of the senate. It is a fortunate thing for America that these three agencies of machine politics are left out in the cold when the administration takes up the great questions growing out of the war. Mr. Hughes as secretary of state has a better grasp of world affairs than the narrow provincialism of the senator from Massachusetts could ever assimilate. The horizon of Mr. Penrose's vision in the foreign field does not extend beyond the rims of his spectacles, while the foreign relations committee is so deeply steeped in the bitter partisanship created by the fight against Wilson that its judgment is of no value.

The whole scheme of government exploited in the senatorial attack upon President Wilson was one of contradiction and dissimulation. Many unthinking persons were persuaded by these politicians that Mr. Wilson had usurped constitutional rights which belonged to the senate in his handling of foreign affairs. Mr. Harding's election was hailed by this coterie as a "return to constitutional government." Mr. Penrose lost no time in announcing that hereafter the foreign relations committee of the senate would shape foreign policies, and that it made no difference who was appointed secretary of state, the "prerogatives" of the senate would be restored. Mr. Lodge acquiesced in this ridiculous and rather brazen ultimatum from the boss of Pennsylvania, and at the time it had an awe-inspiring effect upon the politicians in general, for no one knew who was to be made secretary of state or what independence the president would show as an executive.

Mr. Penrose of course did not stop to weigh his words of wisdom, neither did his friends. They forgot temporarily that the constitution places the direction of foreign affairs exclusively in the hands of the president and that we have never had a government since Washington in which this executive prerogative was not exercised as the constitution intends. They overlooked the fact in their bitterness toward a president they could not control that he had acted only within his rights, that his foreign policies were all evolved in exact accordance with the constitution, that he never once transgressed the senate's secondary rights, that he stood on absolutely solid ground in his handling of foreign affairs.

We now find President Harding following in the identical footsteps of his predecessor for the simple reason there is no other path to follow, unless constitutional government is to be abandoned and foreign affairs thrown into the hopper of senatorial politics, which would mean an utter lack of any foreign policy whatsoever. Mr. Harding's admirable course up to date, in spite of the fact that it is one he never dreamed of taking when he conferred with the select minds on the front porch at Marion, should be a lesson to the country on the unreliability of irresponsible politics and irresponsible politicians. Why, even the silly and incomprehensible peace resolution, which the senate railroaded through without an idea as to what it was doing, is now to be held up in the house by the president's orders pending the outcome of the reparations controversy. What a blow to the "nationalism" of the party organs which a few months ago talked glibly about non-involvement in foreign affairs, of going "back to the fathers," of an American destiny which had no connection with the outside world! Without a word of warning to the senate we join hands with the allies in the interpretation and enforcement of the peace treaty. Without advance notice to the senate the administration ditches the irreconcilables and plunges es into that participation in European affairs which honor and duty demand of it. It is a cold water bath to Messrs. Penrose and Lodge and a dagger thrust to the bitter-enders. Following closely on the president's repudiation of Lodge's assurance to the country of a separate peace, the latest developments in the Harding-Hughes foreign policy are nothing less than a political sensation.

THE LAW TO PANAMA

Panama has been virtually an American dependency ever since President Roosevelt assisted it to cut loose from Columbia. If any lingering doubts are entertained in this connection, they are likely to be removed by the final note of Secretary Hughes to Panama regarding the Costa Rican territory seized by the former state. The New York Herald describes this note as "an explicit command" and the New York Times says Mr. Hughes acted "in the dual character of secretary of state and judge." Panama is notified that unless it voluntarily restores to Costa Rica the improperly occupied territory the United States will proceed to make the transfer itself by means of whatever action "may be requisite." This is clearly an act of justice to Costa Rica, whose right to the territory in dispute was established by the White award following investigation of the boundary controversy, but at the same time it shows the position of Panama to be that of an American dependency rather than an independent republic.

The new republic of Panama having been immediately recognized the Roosevelt administration entered into a treaty to maintain Panama's independence, but of course did not engage to support it in case it should seek new territory by conquest. Panama may or may not now awake to an intelligent understanding of its qualified independence, but in any case it will have to surrender the territory taken at the expense of Costa Rica.

HOW MANY WILL COME BACK?

Now that the war is over and we are headed toward normalcy, will the teachers who left the school room to go into government and other fields of business, come back to school teaching? One government bureau says not. Out of 272 former teachers employed in the War Risk Insurance bureau, 51 per cent say that they will not come back; 40 per cent say they will come back only when salaries and conditions are changed. These were some of our good teachers: probably lost to the profession permanently. They are normal and college graduates of two, six, ten, and seventeen years teaching experience.

When asked why she would not come back to teaching, one university graduate with seventeen years teaching experience, said: "I have invested time, energy, and money. I was paid in the profession less than I could draw as a clerk in an office. One has to live." Sixty-four per cent of the rest agreed with her.

The War Risk bureau is paying these ex-teachers from $1320 to $1920 with a month's vacation and ten days sick leave. They work eight hours a day, and then are free to spend the rest of the time as they like—no home work, no papers to correct.

This is only one of many government bureaus employing former teachers and only one of many lines of work into which teachers have gone. It is probably typical. One Wisconsin teacher was offered positions by six different business firms this spring. Will these teachers come back to lower salaries and indifferent living conditions? Not enough of them to disturb the labor market for teachers. Would they come back to improved salaries and living conditions? Forty per cent of these teachers probably would.

WILD FLOWERS VANISH

Trailing Arbutus and many other wild flowers are becoming extinct.

Wild orchids, spring beauties, blue-bells, bloodroot, even hepatica and anemone have disappeared from many places where once they were abundant.

They are being destroyed by misguided persons who go out each spring, year after year, to "pick wild flowers."

Trailing arbutus suffers most. For when it is torn up by the roots, as usually is done, the entire plant is destroyed.

The inclination to pluck a delicate fragile wild flower is strong in most persons who come upon it in the spring and think it beautiful.

This is true even with many who know such flowers will quickly. Some fall apart almost as soon as they are seized. One thoughtless person destroys a plant or patch of plants which might remain a joy to hundreds. To resist this impulse and stay one's own destructive hand is part of being civilized.

It was not until 1910 that the use of radium for curing cancer was suggested.

RICKETY CHILDREN

No clearly defined line can be drawn between health and disease. No actual distinction can be made between "functional" and "organic." In a very rough way people are said to be "well," or "healthy" when they are anywhere from 70 to 95 per cent healthy. Almost all of us are more or less dead, whether we know or acknowledge it or not. Death never happens suddenly. Breakdowns never come without warning. We simply ignore the warning. Organic disease is functional disease in the last analysis. The first trifling variation from health is the child's first rickets. That is the only way we know that an individual has a disease, by the evidences expressed in variation or alteration of his functions. Symptoms are altered functions.

Rickets is not merely the deformity which marks the late stage of the disease. It is also the comparatively slight functional disturbance which marks the beginning of the disease. Rickets is a defect of nutrition. It is a preventable defect.

According to competent authorities three-fourths of the infants of our cities have some degree of rickets. And according to some careful pathological studies, in which microscopic evidence was sought, probably more than three-fourths of all the children have "latent" rickets—that is, not discoverable by ordinary examination and have not seriously impaired the child's usual health.

I dislike nothing more than detailing the symptoms of any disease. For two reasons: (1) A lot of readers are sure to write and tell me I have "hit" their cases and will I kindly send on the prescription; (2) A lot of readers may try on the symptoms and wear them even though they do not fit at all. But with rickets it is different. I don't think any nostrum dealer or quack doctor finds it worth while to purport to have a cure for rickets. So we may safely mention some of the earlier indications of rickets.

The child headed toward rickets becomes restless, ill-tempered, and no longer sleeps as well as usual. There is excessive sweating, especially about the head, the sweat being sour in odor. The child does not evince the desire to move about or attempt to walk that a normal child shows. The complexion is pale. The flesh is flabby. The belly is distended (pot-belly) and there is excessive fermentation and gas-formation in the intestine. The child is abnormally susceptible to respiratory infections (as well as other infections), which, in the parlance of the ignorant, means that he "takes cold" easily.

One of the earliest bow changes is the square look of the head, due to prominent frontal eminences. Usually there is obstinate constipation and all the reckless and injurious playing with physics that parents think of trifling importance.

Live fat, fresh raw cream or milk or butter, unpasteurized and unsterilized, is the greatest preventive of rickets.

Pure cod liver oil, a teaspoonful three times a day, is the best known cure for rickets.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dutch Courage

man is very nervous, trembling all the core. He takes a few good gulps of whisky. In no time he has control of himself. Does the whisky go to his head and affect his sensitiveness, or does it go direct to the nerves from the stomach, satisfying them? (S. E. G.)

ANSWER—It is Dutch courage—the alcohol benumbs his senses and his judgment, making him temporarily unconscious of his defects and permitting him to think pretty well of himself and his pointing him that explains why a man under the effect of alcohol thinks he can whip every one about him—though of course he can't put up such a good fight as he would sober. Whisky prepares a man for a fight with another man just as treacherously as it would prepare him for a fight with disease. Whisky makes a man stronger headed, but weakens all his powers.

Sodium Iodide for Goitre

Kindly tell me how much sodium iodide to purchase and what amount of water to use to prevent goitre in children. (Mrs. L. M.)

ANSWER—Purchase two dozen tablets each containing three grains of sodium iodide, or if yours is a one-horse drug store or a drug store in name only, a dram of sodium iodide (60 grains). As a preventive for simple goitre in school children, give three grains a day, dissolved in not less than a pint of water, for ten days or twelve days, then rest. A few months later repeat the course.

Our Last Oil Boom

By Frederic J. Haskin

Haskin

Washington, D. C.—What the seismologists say is the last known great oil field in the United States will be thrown open to the public under the oil leasing act on June 15th. All preparations for that event, which is expected to put thousands of new gushers into action, are now being made by the Department of the Interior here.

The field in question is the Salt Creek field, located near Douglas, Wyoming. The leases, on tracts of not more than 640 acres each, will be sold at public auction in Douglas, beginning on the above date and continuing until all are sold.

Under the oil-leasing act of 1920, it is provided that proven oil lands in the public domain shall be disposed of in this way. The lease on a given tract will be sold to the individual or company offering the highest amount for it. In addition to this bonus, the individual must give the Government 25 to 33 1/3 per cent of the oil which he extracts as a royalty. The fee title to the lands remains in the Government.

Of the money which the Government receives from the sale of the leases and from royalties, 52 1/2 per cent must go into the general reclamation fund which is used in placing the arid lands of the public domain under irrigation; 37 1/2 per cent of the money goes to the State of Wyoming for use in the development of schools and roads, and the remaining 10 per cent goes into the Treasury of the United States.

This opening of the Salt Creek field may be regarded as the last part of the last act in the drama of oil production here in the United States. Ever since the great value of petroleum began to be realized, oil booms have been one of the most spectacular features of our national life. The history of them is rich in sensational incidents of fortunes made in a day, of fierce struggles over titles, of gushers worth millions.

The opening of the Salt Creek field will not repeat any of that history. There will be no "Coal-oil Johnnies," no unexpected gushers, no sudden and easy fortunes, and above all none of that waste of a precious substance which characterized the early booms. Science, business and government will cooperate to make the development of the Salt Creek field an orderly and conservative affair. It will produce less melodrama and more oil than the older fields.

A Model Field

For one thing, the scientists say that this field is an almost ideal specimen—that is, it follows the laws which usually control the occurrence of oil almost without exception. In the old days, boring an oil well was a great speculation. But science has been constantly learning more about the nature of oil deposits, and it has learned so much about this oil field in particular that it has made maps and diagrams showing exactly where the oil is and how it may be reached. When a man buys a lease on a section of this land, he will know about how much oil he is buying, and how deep he will have to bore to get it. As a result there will be no speculative excitement about undertaking. It is not improbable that there will be some brisk trading on Wall Street in the stocks of these companies, for the very reason that to an unusual extent they will represent known values.

The undeveloped character of this field may be gauged from the fact that it is estimated to have a capacity of 3,200 wells, but that only 200 wells are now in operation. It is expected to produce in all about one-third of a billion barrels of oil from the two upper oil sands, which have already been tapped. Below these are three other oil sands which can be reached. The whole product of the field is expected to be not far from a billion barrels of oil, and it will take about a quarter of a century to exhaust it. Incidentally, when that quarter of a century is over, almost the entire oil supply within the United States will probably have been exhausted, and that struggle for oil which has become the leading feature of the world's industrial life and the leading motive of its international politics will have shifted forever to other scenes.

The field is described as affording a good opportunity for those who wish to enter the oil business, but it should be fully understood that this is an investment for capital and affords no opportunities for the man with no money or little money. The prospective operator must be prepared to pay down one-fifth of the amount he agrees to pay the Government for a lease. It is impossible to say what the leases will sell for, but it is suggested that $100,000 might be the bonus on a tract of 640 acres. In addition to this, the bidder must be prepared to sink wells, and the present cost of sinking a well in the Salt Creek field is about $18,000.

An Orderly Development

The prospect, therefore, is for an orderly development by well organized companies. This oil field will have a busy and respectable future. But its past is not without a touch of romance. The Government investigators, who have been examining the titles to various tracts, have uncovered many interesting stories.

The value of the field has been known for 40 years or more, and all of it has been taken up by prospectors, some of it many times. The law requires that a certain amount of work must be done on each claim if the claim is to be valid. These claimants were for the most part poor men. The field is 50 miles from a railroad. Boring is expensive. They were able to hold mineral claims by digging shafts with their own hands, but they were not able to bore oil wells, for the most part.

In 1909, when the approaching shortage of oil was realized, the Government withdrew its oil lands from entry, and there was no provision for developing oil deposits on Government lands until the passing of the leasing bill in 1920. Now that these lands are to be leased, the Government must pass upon the titles of all these small claimants. Many of them will be disposed of because they have not done enough work to make good their claims, but some of them have succeeded in patenting their lands.

The field has not been without its romance of wealth. For example, one man came there as a poor drifter and took up lands in the name of his wife and children. Unable to get caught to develop these lands, he leased the right to do so to others and so made a good deal of money. He is said to have been a zealous litigant over his rights, and to have won the sympathy of the court in many cases by holding himself up to its mercy as a poor working man in the hands of sharks. Now his children ride around in automobiles and even fly around in airplanes.

Another set of claims which are said to have merit, derive from a pioneer who stopped at the Salt Creek field in the late seventies on his way back from the California Gold Rush. He was one of the earliest and most successful prospectors for oil. He persuaded a number of persons of all sorts to give him a certain power of attorney by which he took out lands in their names. Although he died a poor man in 1907, it seems probable that his heirs and assigns will profit richly by his "nose for oil" and his shrewdness.

Adventures of the Twins

The Man-in-the-moon.
The two circus monkeys up in the coconut tree stopped singing about the moon and boiled rice and things, and started to chatter to each other like two magpies. Flippety-Flap, Nancy and Nick listened and heard it all, as they had asked their Magical Shoes to make them as tall as Jack's beanstalk and the rest was easy. This was what the monkeys were saying:
"The moon knows everything."
"Let's ask him where we can find some delicious rice, then."
"It's too far away."
"Let's jump and see if we can reach it."
"All right. Let's."
So the monkeys uncurred their tails from around the branch and jumped. But goodness! All they did was to land on their heads.
"Ouch!" cried the first monkey, "Is this the moon?"
"No!" said the second monkey rubbing his head. "It's only the earth, but I can see stars."
"That's just your bump," said the first one. "Let's climb up again."

THE BOOK OF MARTHA A Budget Appeals To Ann

I had to explain "the budget system" indirectly to Ann. She would have shed from an obvious lesson. Fortunately, I had made out my own budget for 1921, and I exhibited the same to Ann, very proudly, and she was at once seized with the spirit of imitation and rivalry.
"I'm going to make one, too! For New Year," she announced. "I want to show it to Daddy! It does look so efficient, Jane—but what is a budget, anyway?"

"It's just a plan you make beforehand for spending the money you haven't got," I explained.
"That sounds so exciting—something like a gamble, isn't it?"
"I should say not! You allot your income, divide it into parts, so much for rent, so much for food, etc. First you set down all the fixed charges, then those you can estimate."

"Sounds great—but will it work?" I estimated $2000 for my mole coat last fall and it cost me $3500!"
"Making a budget is like making a vow," I said solemnly. "Once it's finished, you stick to it, if you're a good sport!"

"Say, how do you begin a budget?"
"With your savings account," I said positively.

"What?"
"There's only one way to save money," I insisted. "Take it right out of your salary or wages or income the first day of each month—and bank it!"
"Savings?" And wrote down the word. "What next?"

The Eastern Star will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening in Masonic hall.

"Or pet coons" Ann interrupted. Then she counted her items and sighed.
"I never knew before that there were so many ways to spend money on a home! Last year I checked out all Daddy Lorimer gave me for clothes! He must have settled my household bills! Gee, I bet he was wrothy! Honestly, I never thought about what the house was costing." "I know you didn't dear," I spoke considerably because I realized that the babe hadn't been wilfully extravagant. She had only done what hundreds of untrained wives do, she had spent all she could get hold of upon her pretty self because she had never had a "budget" to guide her. (To Be Continued)

Mrs. Comstock Tells How Cuticura Healed Child's Eczema

"My little daughter had eczema when she was eighteen months old. The eruptions on her face were large and red and feasted and scaled over with a black scale. There were small, watery places on her scalp which turned to a soft white scale. She was terribly disfigured and restless at night. I began using Cuticura Soap and it was a great help, but not until I began using Cuticura Ointment, together with the Cuticura Soap, did the eruptions entirely leave. She was healed." IRISH QUESTION BEFORE ASSEMBLY

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison.—The whole question of Irish freedom will be threshed out before the assembly committee on state affairs Wednesday in the consideration of the Huber joint resolution requesting President Harding to officially recognize the de facto government of Ireland.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, chairman of the state affairs committee, has asked the use of the assembly chamber for the afternoon evidently anticipating a large crowd of proponents and opponents of the bill.

The Irish will be represented by an official of the republic of Ireland, it is understood.

The senate passed the resolution without much debate but the measure will not have such easy sledding in the assembly, it was stated today.

Senator Huber denies any political significance attached to the bill and is prepared to lead the fight for a favorable committee report.

C. A. Pardee, Jr., went to Chicago Monday to meet his wife who with her parents had just returned from a several months' visit to California.

"Funny thing happened the other day!"

"Let's have it, George!"

"A stranger dropped in and asked for a 'smoke'! I handed over the Adlon box."

"He had never smoked Adlon before and I told him a few things about this wonderful cigar and how it 'gets' to the smoke-taste of particular men."

"What's funny about that?"

"Wait! A day or so later this same chap came in for a box of Adlons. When I wrapped up the box he said:—"

"'You certainly gave me a prize tip on good smokes. When I arrived home the other night the wife was upstairs. I lit up my Adlon and in a little while the Mrs. called to ask why I hadn't told her Uncle John had arrived."

"'It put me up in the air until she said she smelled Uncle John's cigar—(Uncle John's 'smokes', by the way, cost him half a dollar each)."

"'She could hardly believe that a moderately priced cigar like Adlon could smell so fragrant.'"

"What's the Adlon secret, George?"

"It's in the blend. Some 500 experiments were made with different tobaccos before the Adlon blend was created. It's a rare combination of rich Havana filler with fine Sumatra wrapper—chock-full of real aroma and an all-tobacco flavor."

"I've never smoked a cigar at any price that's more satisfying than Adlon. And I've been handling cigars since I was a youngster at the cigar-maker's bench."

"Yes, sir; Adlon is my best seller!"

You can get Adlon—the best cigar you can buy—from any good dealer.

PREPARE TO START MILLION DOLLAR CATHOLIC DRIVE

Pastoral Letter of Bishop Rhode Is First Gun in Huge Charity Campaign.

Every parish in the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church is being organized for the united drive for $1,000,000 for provincial and diocesan institutions. The date set for the campaign is June 6, when it is expected that at least a million and a quarter will be raised in one day, according to Gustave Keller, diocesan chairman.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul Peter Rhode, Green Bay, has given each pastor the privilege of permitting lay members to speak in the various churches concerning the drive and its objects. This is the first time in the history of the diocese that the bishop, clergy and laymen have united in this manner for a campaign.

Publicity is being given the drive in each of the 14 deaneries in the diocese. The entire month of May is given over to a campaign informing the members what the drive is for and why they should contribute liberally.

Rhode Makes Appeal
Perhaps the most effective appeal for the funds was that of the Bishop Rhode in his pastoral letter which was read to Appleton congregations recently. The bishop announced his departure for Rome and says:

"Along with our brethren of the Milwaukee diocese, and of the La Crosse diocese, we have launched a campaign for funds. We must not fail. Thanks to the energy of our reverend pastors and your own lay representatives, our campaign organization is well high complete.

"It now remains for the various parish committees to carry the work into the precincts of their districts. The entire management of the campaign is in charge of our diocesan committee, with its executive board. I appeal to all the faithful of the diocese to give our campaign committee a generous and wholehearted support. They are worthy of it. It is not a pleasant nor a grateful task that the general chairman and his coworkers have shouldered. I would gladly remain, if I could, to take an active part in the campaign work. However, this cannot be. I will trust, therefore, my dear friends, to your intelligence and to your Catholic spirit for its outcome. Though the times are not as favorable as we would like, I fear not for the result. Provided you, dearly beloved, look upon the campaign as true Catholics should. Its end is not selfish. If you are called on to give, do not fail to remember that those who are making the appeal, not only are also contributing their share, but are in addition, giving unselfishly of their time and service to the cause. This campaign is organized to promote works of religion and charity among us.

Campaign Officers Here
Much of the organization work emanates from Appleton, as the lay activities are in charge of Gustave Keller as campaign chairman and Stephen Balliet as campaign secretary. Each deanery and each church within the deanery is thoroughly organized. The soliciting will be done by teams directed by captains.

Subscriptions made on the date of the drive are to be paid within three years, according to the plan outlined by Mr. Keller. This plan was adopted because of the hardship that might be caused to many if they had to pay their full share now. The first payment will be due September 1, 1921, and regular installments are to be paid each month. Payment of pledges sooner than the time started above is optional with the subscriber.

Funds realized from the campaign will be used for the building and equipment of a new provincial seminary to replace the antiquated structure in Milwaukee. Other amounts will be applied to altered equipment and supporting institutions within the Green Bay diocese, including Catholic hospitals, St. Joseph Orphan Asylum, McCormick Home for the Aged, Home of the Good Shepherd, St. Mary Home for Foundlings, Home for Crippled Children and others. Not far remote in diocesan plans is the erection of a home for the blind and a hospital for chronic invalids.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing Marshroot for kidney and bladder sickness and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money-back if dissatisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, headache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marshroot right away.

It has wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder trouble and is the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years and his great Prescription, Marshroot, aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Erect Clubhouse.

Appleton Angling and Shooting club now has its own shooting park for tournaments and practice shoots. Negotiations were completed last week for leasing four acres of land at the intersection of Manitowoc and Lake-rd., about a half mile north of Waverly beach, from Joseph Birling Jr., for a period of five years, with the privilege of renewal when the lease expires.

Plans were discussed at a meeting in Elk club Monday evening for erecting a clubhouse and installing traps. It is proposed to invest about $700 in improvements. The proposed clubhouse will contain a kitchen and other conveniences for all-day parties.

Two traps equipped to throw doubles will be installed. It was said the shooting ground will be available for use every day in the week. The park is convenient as it is on the carline and splendid facilities are provided for parking automobiles.

tions as private concerns," said the Rt. Rev. Bishop Rhode in his pastoral letter. "Be not callous and indifferent. It will not do, to go through life heartless and unkind of the sufferings of others. Let us not trust too much to our own rugged health, strength or resourcefulness. The day may come, when one of these institutions may be a God-send to yourself or your family. Perhaps sometime your own child may be in need of a home. Perhaps you will be in search of a refuge for some wayward one. Perhaps you may have a friend or relative, who will be in need of a Catholic nurse's care. Perhaps the day will come that you will be glad that some one will throw the mantle of protection about some cripple or invalid dear to you. You little know how sad it is and how disheartening when your bishop, in answer to an inquiry of some Catholic charity, must confess that there is none of that kind in existence in the diocese, and that there is nothing left but to go to a state institution. Were you, Dearly Beloved, in that position, you would easily understand the reason for our campaign. Let us be merciful, that we may obtain mercy."

FEWER ACCIDENTS AND MORE WORK IF LIGHTING IS GOOD

Types of Industrial Lamps Are Displayed at Industrial Conference.

In an illustrated talk on "Industrial Lighting" at the vocational school building Monday night, John A. Hoeveler, electrical engineer of the Industrial commission, called special attention to the necessity of getting the glare away from the workman's eyes and on his work. This is accomplished by reflectors which relieve eye strain or by an overhead defusion of light.

In introducing the speaker, Hon. John G. D. Mack, state chief engineer, said it was not until 1891 that the illumination of factories on any kind of a scale was started. "Presumably one reason was," he said, "people didn't have so much work to do that required artificial illumination.

"There was not so much to read. But with the beginning of industrial development toward the end of the eighteenth century there began to be a demand for better illumination along essential lines. That development increased rather slowly until the end of the century when it made vast strides."

One of the main features brought out by Mr. Hoeveler was that better lighting means better and more production and less waste of material.

Hard Time Dance Tonight, May 10 by International Club, Kimberly Dining Hall.

Pictures of improperly lighted workrooms were shown on the screen showing low glaring lights that cast deep shadows in passageways and elsewhere. An overhead lighting system that did away with shadows as far as possible was suggested by the speaker as the proper one.

One of the outstanding points of an overhead lighting system is that it does away with individual lights for workmen except in rare cases. The lights of a properly illuminated factory can be so arranged as to do away almost entirely with shadows. Proper illumination lessens the number of accidents, he said.

The need of reflectors was brought out by the speaker. Without a reflector a large portion of the light of an incandescent lamp is wasted as it goes upward. The various types were exhibited upon the screen and

ANOTHER LANDMARK TO BE TORN DOWN

Former Broadway House on West College-ave. Is Being Dismantled.

The work of razing the Kloeppel building at the corner of College-ave. and Walnut-st. to make room for the new filling station to be erected by the United Consumers Corporation was commenced Monday and will proceed rapidly. It is the intention of the owners to have the new station in operation not later than the middle of July.

H. E. Ross of Milwaukee, president of the company, who visited Appleton a few days ago, said the new station is to be one of the handiest in the state and that the grounds, 46x120 feet, will be ornamented with shrubbery and flowers. The company will also erect three 18,000-gallon oil tanks on the north side of College-ave at the intersection of Outagamie-st.

The building that is being dismantled was formerly a three story structure and in the early days was known as the Broadway house. The third story was removed a quarter of a century ago because the foundation was not able to carry the load and there was danger of the walls collapsing. The building was held together by a series of braces.

Capt. James Lennon and Charles Reitzner were among the pioneer proprietors of the hotel. In the fall and spring lumbermen made it their headquarters in going to and from the woods and at those periods every room was occupied and the halls were lined with cots.

The building came into the possession of the late August Kloeppel about twenty years ago and until his death was used as a hardware store. For the last few months it was occupied by the Federal Bakery.

those in most general use were of sufficient width to throw the entire light downward.

The reason better goods are produced in daylight is because daylight is better in modern buildings. The mercury vapor lamp is the nearest approach to daylight. It cast a greenish glow, but cannot be used where colors enter into the work.

Mr. Hoeveler also touched on yard lighting and exhibited on the screen a lamp that is in general use. The necessity for proper illumination in yards was brought out by the speaker.

SEEK ENROLMENTS IN SOCIAL BODY

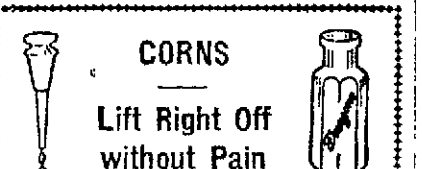

Appleton Membership in State
Conference of Social Work
Is Growing.

Local civic and social organizations appear to be responding readily to the campaign for membership in the Wisconsin State Conference of Social Work. Among those already subscribing are the John McNaughton and Men's Bible classes of the First Methodist church, the Red Cross and Fraternal Order of Eagles. Other organizations having the matter under consideration are the Y. M. C. A., chamber of commerce, Elks, Womans club and the Jewish society.

The state conference is the one movement in which all social agencies, state wide and local, have combined. It is endorsed by social workers in every field as of vital importance to the social progress of the state.

Cities in the state are conducting a membership campaign enrolling institutions and individuals. Institutional memberships are $10 a year and individual memberships $2 a year. A local committee of which the Rev. P. C. Brayton is chairman is presenting the matter to local organizations. Clubs, lodges, church societies and other social agencies are affiliating through their membership plan. The conference already has representatives in 300 cities and towns in the state.

Among activities of the social conference are development of work for undernourished children or those suffering from mental and physical defects, for prevention of disease, insanity, crime and pauperism. The work is carried to places in the state where such activities scarcely have been heard of.

Get the Prest-O-Lite Prescription for that Bilious Battery

Get that examination NOW!

ARE your lights dim and yellow? Do you get a lazy spark? Does the starter labor to throw the engine over? Your battery may show none of these symptoms, and still need looking over.

Tuning up the motor and putting grease in the cups and transmission don't constitute the Spring overhauling. What about the battery, the electric heart of the whole works?

It may be all right, but find out. When you do need a new battery, you'll be glad to know that Prest-O-Lite is back to pre-war prices and that an allowance will be made on your old battery.

Drive around to the Prest-O-Lite Service Station and get the correct dope on your battery's condition. That's the common-sense thing to do. A little attention now may save you the price of a new battery later.

Charm of Motherhood

THERE are many homes once childless that now are blessed with healthy, happy children, because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored the mother to a healthy, normal physical condition.

The following letters give the experience of two young women and prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Chicago, Ill.—"I was always tired, my head always ached, and my back ached until I could hardly stand the pain. I doctored for years, and the doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, and that I could not have children. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles of it and it helped me wonderfully, and I now have a fine baby boy, thanks to what your medicine did for me in restoring my health. I can highly recommend the Compound to all women who suffer from female ills."—Mrs. Wm. Reiss, 304 Willow St., Chicago, Ill.

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a very nervous condition, was irregular, and could not have any children. I took doctor's medicine without success, and he advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon felt benefited by its use, became regular, and now we have a fine baby girl after having been married nine years. I am always glad to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends who suffer from such troubles."—Mrs. H. B. Field, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

HILL AND MAHMOUT READY FOR BIG BATTLE TONIGHT

IMMENSE CROWD IS EXPECTED AT FEATURE STRUGGLE

Principals in Season's Best Card Arrive in Appleton Late Today.

Not since Eddie McGoorty and Bud Gorman squared off in a ring at Appleton has there been an important athletic event in Appleton as scheduled for tonight when George Hill, Budge champion goes on the mat with Yusuf Mahmout, former champion of the world and still regarded as one of the world's greatest. The big show is to begin at 8:30 with a number of interesting preliminaries and it is believed the big boys will shake mitts about 9:30 or 9:45.

Hill and Mahmout blew into town late this afternoon looking for a scrap. Both men were interested in the condition of the other and both expressed a determination and confidence which assured a real battle.

As has been said before in these columns the battle is a test for both men and much hinges on its outcome. If Hill loses it will prove conclusively that he is hardly good enough to meet the real topnotchers whereas if he wins it will put him in line for lucrative matches and at the same time will put Mahmout out of running as a championship contender.

Hill has been training at Garv. Ind. and Chicago Heights while Mahmout has confined his workouts to Chicago. He wrestled in Minneapolis a day or two ago and has had a few light matches to put himself in the pink of condition. Except for bouts with sparring partners Hill has been confining his training to road work and endurance to increase his speed and endurance.

The advance ticket sale indicates a good crowd. Good roads will mean a large attendance from nearby towns and cities. Green Bay and Oshkosh will send large delegations and nearly all the local fans will be present.

Amateur "Big Three" After Golf Title

Bobby Jones

Hopes to win the British amateur golf championship are pinned in the Big Three of the American team—Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet and Chick Evans.

They represent the strongest lay out of talent ever sent in quest of a cup on foreign links.

All have been playing since they were big enough to swing a club and holler fore.

Evans and Ouimet went to England in 1914 and lost.

Jones will be the only member of the trio to be handicapped by strange surroundings. Yet he is much further developed in his game than either Evans or Ouimet were when they first played abroad.

The two represent the golf strength of east, west and south. Evans hails from Chicago, Ouimet from Boston and Jones from Atlanta.

All are now at the top of their game. Evans is now playing at the age of 28.

Chick Evans

Francis Ouimet

Ouimet played hockey from school when he was a kid to ramble over the links. He had the bug so bad he often got up in the middle of the night to practice new swings.

Jones grew up with the golf links as his playground.

Ted Ray, during his visit here last summer, saw the Atlanta boy wonder play and remarked that he could beat any amateur in England.

The other members of the invading team are J. Wood Platt, Freddie Wright, Paul Hunter and William C. Fowkes, all strong golfers.

In the American team the Britons will be called on to face a national champion, two former national champions, two state title holders, a southern champion and a former finalist and a district finalist who reached the national semi-finals in 1919.

PADDOCK'S MARKS GO UNRECOGNIZED

World Sports Federation Will Not Consider Californian's Records.

By Henry L. Farrell
New York—Charles Paddock, California speedster, will get no international recognition this year as the world's greatest sprinter.

The five sensational marks made by the Pacific coast youth in the sprints will not be offered to the international amateur athletic federation when it meets in Geneva May 23.

F. W. Ruben, secretary of the A. A. U., said Thursday on the Mauretania for Switzerland where he will attend a series of important international meetings. He will offer for recognition twenty-three records made by American athletes since 1914 but Paddock's marks will not be included and will have to wait four years for official acceptance.

Ruben explained Tuesday that Paddock's records could not be offered because they cannot be accepted by the A. A. U. until the annual convention of the union next November.

The international Olympic committee meets in Lausanne during the week of June 2 to 7.

America will seek to have a uniform program and schedule of events adopted for all the Olympic games of the future, Ruben said. In the past the country acting as host to the world's athletes was allowed to present any program desired.

The American committee will not disclose its choice for the site of the 1924 Olympic games.

Reports from the other side indicate that Paris has lined up enough European votes to assure the next Olympics being held in the French capital.

All the college fraternities are represented by teams and several interesting games have been played. The season continues until near the end of the school year.

PRINCE INDORSES ANGLO-U. S. GAMES

By Charles M. McCann

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—The Prince of Wales is enthusiastic over the boom in Anglo-American sports.

While he never consents to an interview or a direct quotation in newspapers, the heir to the British throne let the United Press know Tuesday through his secretary, Sir Godfrey Thomas, that he views with the greatest interest the increase in cordial relations between British and American athletes. He believes the unusually large number of contests between Britain and America arranged for the summer months to be an indication of a close Anglo-American friendship that will be cemented on the track and field.

The prince, being a great horseman, is particularly interested in the coming international polo cup contests and hopes to attend every match. He is to spend his first summer at home since the war and plans to take up the game himself. He wants to meet all the American players and tell them personally how welcome they are on British soil.

High School Athletes to Specialize in Their Favorite Events.

Coach Vincent is preparing a team to take part in the track meet for high schools in this part of the state at Lawrence field May 21. The team probably will be chosen from the men who won first and second places in the meet Saturday.

Beginning Monday the coach will direct the practice of the boys along special lines. Roach is working out for the high jump and the dashes. Purvis, Curry and Damsheuser will specialize in the mile, half mile and 440 yard runs. Laughlin will develop speed for the quarter mile and will also work on the javelin throw. Briesse will work in the broad jump and low hurdles and Gary will tackle the hurdles and jumps.

Tappert will spend most of his time on the weights and the javelin. There will be several others who will be chosen for other events.

ALL-COLLEGE MEET HERE ON SATURDAY

Lawrence college track and field athletes will go on exhibition next Saturday afternoon in an all college meet sponsored by the L. club and the athletic association to assist Coach H. D. McChesney in selecting his team for the dual meet with Oshkosh, Wis., May 20, and for the state meet in Beloit the week following. Prizes will be awarded winners in each of the events, high individual point winners and the fraternity whose members score the large number of points.

Coach McChesney hopes to be able to pick his track and field squad after the meet. All events from 50 yard dash to the miles will be staged. Prizes will be as follows:

Gold medal to winner in each event, silver medal to second place winner and ribbon to third place winner.

Silver loving cup to high individual point winner.

Silver loving cup to fraternity scoring the largest number of points.

The meet is to begin at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and a small admission fee will be charged. It will be the first real opportunity Appleton people will have to see the college stars in action and it is believed the attendance will be large.

Arrangements have been completed for a dual meet with Oshkosh normal school here Friday, May 20, the day previous to the interscholastic meet for eastern Wisconsin high schools. The normal school is said to have an exceptionally strong team and is confident of defeating the local crew. Williams, Wheeler, Kulitz, Colvin and Smith, however, are counted on to win enough events to keep the collegians in the lead.

CAREER ON STAGE IS HANDICAP TO CHAMP PUGILISTS

Kilbane Says Dempsey's Vitality and Speed Suffered From Footlights.

BY JOHNNY KILBANE

Featherweight Champion of the World. There is an "untraining" as well as the usual training that Jack Dempsey will have to put himself through before he can get in to shape for his fight with Carpenter on July 2.

For Dempsey has been on the stage and when you've said that about a fighter, you've said a book full.

After I took the title from Attell, I fell for the fancy bookings and went into vaudeville. But I soon learned what every champion should know—that the stage is the worst place in the world for a boxer—and I quit. A champion must keep himself always in condition. That means a stiff workout daily, with emphasis on the daily means regular food and regular hours and temperate habits.

Perils of Stage
In vaudeville he is subjected to countless nights in a cramped sleeper, late hours, different, and often indigestible food in every town, and worst of all, he is robbed of any opportunity to get in the daily workout so vital in keeping in condition. "Continual public appearance increases the danger of a champion being spoiled by the 'good fellows' who like to hang about him. Jack Dempsey has been practically inactive since he beat Willard in 1919, for he spent little time in preparing for either Miske or Brennan.

He went into the movies shortly after he won the title, and he jumped from that into vaudeville, staying on behind the footlights until the time to go to Freddy Welsh's farm for the beginning of his training. He's stage stale.

Weakened Jack
Jack's vaudeville experience has weakened him physically speaking. It has robbed him of speed and has made him a poor judge of distance. It will make it a far tougher job for him to get into shape for Carpenter. It will mean a lot of "untraining" to get these weaknesses ironed out before he can really begin to get in shape.

The 22 months I spent in the army poured into me the lesson that a champion must always be in shape. For when I hooked up with Frankie Brown at Philadelphia just after getting out of the service, my ability to judge distance and my speed was so far gone, owing to lack of constant training, that Brown knocked me down before I could beat him.

And this despite the fact that I spent all my time in the service instructing the boys in boxing. But I boxed in my uniform; I wasn't on the diet I was accustomed to; and boxing in the army was work.

That's another thing that a boxer must remember—boxing and training for a fight always must be play. If he makes work of it, he will never be a success. For a man can't put the whole-hearted enthusiasm into his work that he can into his play. And that holds good for the baseball player or the man in any other branch of professional sport as well as for the boxer.

Sport Views And News

May it be said to the credit of Appleton baseball fans that they refrained from swinging the hammer after last Sunday's baseball debacle. Fans quite generally believed the team had an off day and were willing to give the boys another chance or two or three chances. Brandt's team opens with Kimberly here Sunday afternoon and there is every reason to believe the crowd will be as large as last Sunday. The valley league contains some good ball clubs and good games are assured.

Kaukauna is having a hard time raising enough money to finance its ball club in the Fox River Valley league and there is grave danger that it will be unable to start. Fans in Kaukauna support the club during the season but apparently they are not anxious to assist in paying the initial bills. Appleton people hope Kaukauna can see her way clear to remain in the circuit because of the rivalry between the two towns. Rivalry is what makes the game interesting and much of the spice of the valley league would be lost if Kaukauna unfortunately should be obliged to withdraw. Here is hoping Kaukauna can remain with us.

One thing is sure the Darned Sox won't sink any lower in the American league race. Gleason's clan have hit the skids fast and they are now resting in the tail end position. Some cellars are popular places these days but not in baseball. Comiskey's crew has gone to pieces and with the exception of Red Faber, the pitching staff hasn't shown a thing all season and unless we miss our guess the Sox are going to give Connie Mack's Athletics an awful run for "hole" honors.

Ed Bradley, the Lexington horse man, who finished one-two in two his Kentucky derby is a victim of tough luck if there is any truth to the rum going the rounds in Louisville these days. It seems that Bradley put more faith in Black Servant than he did in Behave Yourself and bet accordingly. The horse carrying his money finished second, a nose behind his other thoroughbred who was practically ignored in the betting line by the owner. It is said that nose difference between the horses made about a $100,000 difference to the owner.

EMPLOYERS' DUTY TO EDUCATE YOUNG OF HIS EMPLOYEES

John Callahan Outlines Apprenticeship System at Industrial Meeting.

EVERY SHOP A CLASSROOM

Up to Management of Industry to Make University a Greater Institution.

"Employers should make it their profound duty to impress upon their employees at all times, the necessity of giving their children a proper education," said John Callahan, state superintendent-elect in an address before a large audience in the vocational school Monday afternoon.

Mr. Callahan is here in connection with the fourth annual industrial service conference.

The state superintendent-elect in opening his address, said the few hundred factory heads, safety experts and welfare workers representing all parts of the state to make the "give your children the proper education" slogan a big issue.

Mr. Callahan spoke of the relation of the school to industries, explaining how the school can prepare a boy for some prospective trade how it can determine a boy's aptitudes and by closer alliance with the industries, relieve the employer of an expensive labor turnover among juvenile workers and how the school also can save the most precious years of a boy's life by helping him find the occupation in which he best fits.

Apprenticeship is a part of the educational system, said Mr. Callahan. The schools must exert whole influence on the children. If a boy must go to work, he is kept in contact with the school longer through apprenticeship than if he worked under the child labor law. The state control of apprenticeship law, enforces the boy against unscrupulous employers and it is the duty of the state to prevent him from becoming a vocational hobo by giving him some definite training.

No New Ideas
Willis Wisler, chief of the bureau of commercial and industrial relations of the university extension division, gave an address on "Bringing the University to the Shop."

"We bring to this discussion no new idea," Mr. Wisler said. "We aim only at the fulfillment of what was in mind of President Barge when he said, speaking of the enlarged vision of a state university: 'for all the people.' It has become the duty of the university to reinterpret knowledge for the ends of practice and to convey learning so reinterpreted to the people in such a way as to make it immediately effective in life."

"It is the university itself with all its varied resources we strive to bring you—no mere substitute—but the best its faculty can provide. Our function as an extension bureau covering commercial and industrial relations we conceive as an instrument for educational engineering. Our function is not so much to create or to initiate as to collect and to render available to Wisconsin industry, the best theory and practice of men recognized nationally as authorities in their special fields.

Realism Needed

"This is no slight task. In fact it requires a constant vigilance and resourcefulness. Much is being said of late regarding the pressing need for realism in our educational system. Nowhere can we so ill afford an uncritical sentimentalism as in the realm of industry. Perhaps we are now swinging to the other extreme. Certainly the test of things as they are, should be constantly sought after.

"There has been too much readiness to condemn the theorist for his detachment from the world of realities. Our own university has had its full share of such criticism. But such criticism is worthless if no opportunity for escape from this academic isolation is provided.

Nor has the criticism of the university been confined to this general charge of academic preoccupation with theory.

It has gone somewhat deeper. It has at times attacked the integrity of its scientific impartiality.

Not Greatly Alarmed

I confess I can not feel greatly alarmed by these structures. I cannot help feeling that what is attributed to instruction is but the natural effect of youth, of its abounding energy and hopefulness. Instead of condemning the state university with a bad name these men in industry—and they are by no means all employers—could offer the best antidote to the pernicious sentimentalism they deplore by confronting the university with industry itself. Let us thrust the shop into the classroom, carry the classroom into the shop.

The advantages of such an arrangement must be manifest at first sight—but so must also be the disadvantages. Inconveniences would be sure to arise. The question to be decided is whether the employer shall shirk the annoyance and confusions arising out of having his shops used as industrial laboratories, what is used as training grounds, or let radicals carry on their proselyting among our impressionable youths. Nothing comes without labor. And this kind of labor cannot be done effectively by proxy. Employers themselves must stand forth their own honest and sincere advocates. They must learn patience and sympathy in dealing with the new generation. The stake is worth the effort.

Constantly the university should be blazing new trails, opening up new vistas, tapping new resources—both material and spiritual. Such activity must be a public enterprise, supported by all, free to all. Whether such research heads in the right direction, whether it is progressively constructive, must depend a very great deal on the attitude of management in industry, whether the executives in industry are intelligently friendly or hostile.

THOUSANDS OF MEN ARE IDLE IN DETROIT

E. L. Williams, city clerk, returned from Detroit, Mich., Monday evening, where he was called by the critical illness of his mother whom he left somewhat improved. Mr. Williams said while the automobile situation is better than it had been thousands of men were still out of employment and they were willing to work for whatever wages they could get. Rents are still high and he was surprised to see so few vacant homes. In coming into Chicago on his way home the train passed an employment bureau where men were standing in line for nearly a block waiting their turn to get to the employment window.
